

DEFINING MASTERY

Think about someone you know who can do one of these things really well. (The person can be you, if you like.)

Speak a foreign language

Play games of strategy

Conduct scientific experiments

Write a persuasive essay

Cook

Play a musical instrument

Play a sport

Another example _____

How long has that person been practicing that skill?

What does mastery look like at this person's level?

Where is that person on the journey toward being an "expert"?

What did that person's skill level look like a few years ago?

What might that person be able to do a few years from now?
